DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's remarks filed October 14, 2005 have been entered and fully considered but are not found persuasive as to the issues set forth in this Office action. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Claim 1 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Plant Breeder's Right grant number 03000204 published on January 1, 1996 in the United Kingdom, in view of applicant's admission that 'Charam' was sold in The United Kingdom as early as April 1 1998 (page 3 of reply filed October 15, 2002).

Amc
2/21/06Response to Arguments

Applicant argues that one could not make any association between the plant sold under the name of 'Redwing' and the denomination in the PBR.

This is not persuasive because one of ordinary skill in the art would have known that Charam and Redwing are the same plant as specified on page 3 of the European application. Moreover, in the UPOVROM one of ordinary skill in the art would have found the name of the applicant "Notcutts Nursery" and would have known where to obtain the claimed plant. By searching the Internet, one of ordinary skill in the art, for example, could easily search Notcutts Nursery for their address: Ipswich Road, Woodbridge Suffolk and phone number: 01394 383344 as noted (<http://www.notcutts.co.uk/nurseries/main.htm>). One of ordinary skill in the art would have been able to check the availability of the claimed plant and where to purchase that plant as well as under what name it was sold. Moreover, the breeder is in the business of selling plants and the instant plants could have been obtained at the previously cited address. It is clear that a difference in names does not obscure the fact that one of ordinary skill in the art could have bought the plant as the sale was not a single, isolated occurrence, and reproduced the plant as asexual reproduction of Euphorbia is well documented in the art, thus enabling the Plant Breeder's Right publication.

Art Unit: 1661

Comment

No claim is allowed.

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
